

PSEUDOPANAX

MOA'S TOES PVR31743

KEY FEATURES

- Outstanding selection from Texture Plants, Christchurch
- Named after the now extinct, NZ endemic Moa, for its foliage resembling a giant moa's toes!
- Thick, shiny, leathery foliage in earthy tones of deep burgundy to deep green, which darkens with exposure to cold temperatures and sunlight
- Makes an eye-catching statement against finely textured foliage, such as grasses, and perfect in contemporary garden settings
- Low water tolerance, once established
- Wind and coastal tolerant
- 2m x 2m
